

This activity book belongs to: _____

“I don’t want to leave Frederiksted, I really like it here,” Anna told her parents as her brown eyes filled with tears. “Trust us, you will love it! There are lots of things to do!” But Anna really doubted what her parents said was true.

Imagine you are moving away from St. Croix. What would you miss the most? Draw what you would miss inside the photo frame!

Young Anna leapt upstairs, hoping to explore some more,
And that's when she discovered
a sparkling, glowing door.

Draw the sparkling door.

Anna felt excited as she walked around with glee,
She would never again be bored, she was finally free!
No parents to tell her what to do, no homework to be done,
No more eating healthy foods, all the rules were gone.

So, Anna went along, clueless to the bad,
Not knowing all the secrets that Upside-Down Town had.
She picked from guava tart trees; she drank from Mango River,

Draw your version of Upside-Down Town.

“I give up, I can’t go on, and I’ve searched low and high,
I think your riddle seems to be more than meets the eye.
Tell me now, “What’s inside you always, whether hidden or on show?
You’ve got to tell me now, I really need to know.

“It’s happiness!” Anna said, not at all surprised,
The Goat Foot Woman was so bitter, she never realized.

Draw the Goat Foot Woman melting.